

Stamatia Sofiou
Associate Professor
French Language and Literature
Division of Humanities
Hellenic Army Academy
Evelpidon Avenue, 166 72 Vari, Greece
Email: dr.sofioustamatia@gmail.com

Stamatia Sofiou obtained her Maîtrise de Français Langue Etrangère from the University of René Descartes- Paris V, France, and her Maîtrise de Lettres Modernes from the University of Paris Sorbonne – Paris IV, France. She has a Diplôme d'Etudes Approfondies from the University of Paris Sorbonne – Paris IV, France, and a Doctorate on French Language and Literature from the University of Paris Sorbonne- Paris IV, France.

Stamatia Sofiou is Head of the French Department at the Hellenic Army Academy, French Language Examiner: Hellenic Ministry of National Defence, Athens, Greece. French Language Examiner: Hellenic Military Geographical Service (HMGS), Athens, Greece. French Language Examiner: Hellenic Military Foreign Language School, Athens, Greece. French Language Teacher : Institut Français d'Athènes, Grèce (2007-2008).

Stamatia Sofiou's MA Thesis was published in France in 2000 (Septentrion Presses Universitaires Editions) and she is the author of three books on French Linguistics, French Language, and French Literature.

Stamatia Sofiou's work consists of a great deal of presentations in Greek and French at international conventions and many articles published in international journals. She has also translated two articles on the subject of Language and European Policy as well as a Poetry Collection.

Stamatia Sofiou is a member of the University Alumni Pan-Hellenic Association of Teachers of the French Language and Literature and a member of the Fédération Internationale des Professeurs de Français (FIPF). Her interests focus on Education and Training, Applied Linguistics, Sociolinguistics, Military Terminology and War Literature.